Description on Plaque

Base of the Navy sea planes, World War one (1915-1918). It housed a fleet of 12 aircraft of the Quadrille. The Ramps are visible used to pull in the dry and drag them in front of the hangar specially built. After the war the complex was converted to civilian use and managed by SITAR companies, who performed a service from Genoa to San Remo and offered sightseeing flights over the city. The Company was dissolved in 1934 and in 1936 the hangars were demolished.
